VILLAGE COUNCIL.

OLD TIME DANCE AND FIDDLERS' CONTEST

GRAYLING ELKS PULLING HUGE BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT.

Officers Club at Reservation, Friday, June 8th.

A big coming event in Grayling will be the old time barn dance to be given at the officer's club house at the military reservation at Lake Huron on the evening of June 8th. At first it was planned to give the party at the school gymnasium, but it was later decided that the club house would be more ideal for such an affair, situated as it is on Lake Margrethe.

The dance is given by the Elks of Grayling as a benefit party for Grayling Mercy Hospital and the entire expense will be borne by them, with every cent of the proceeds being donated to the hospital. The Whitney Schraut Red-Stripe orchestra of Owasco has been hired to furnish the music. This organization will play at Colleen's pavilion the coming season beginning next Saturday night. For entertainment "Bill Powell" of Vanamoose, Stock Co., and company of "Social Sessions" after being a hit road during the winter season, will be there, and the Elks lodge of Bay City are sending their renowned sextette and quartette here to entertain during the evening. Besides the dance there will be an old fiddlers' contest with first and second prize awards of $25 and $15. Every one is invited to participate in this contest and for entry send your name to T. W. Hanson, Grayling, for registration.

For the convenience of those who do not own cars and would like to attend the party there will be free transportation to the Club. Cars will leave Burke's garage at regular intervals beginning at 7:00 o'clock. This service is particularly intended for the "old folks" so they may be able to go out and enjoy their favorite dance.

Don't miss this party as young and old alike will be there. There promises to be a record-breaking crowd and you will want to be one of them.

DETROIT AUTO RACES SUNDAY, JUNE 10

The mile track on the state fair grounds, Detroit, will be the scene on Sunday, June 10th of one of the greatest auto race battles to be held in this country—an out standing event of such nature that the American Automobile Association which governs sanctioned speedway races has seen fit to class it with the Indianapolis and other regular speedways and award championship points. For two years the Detroit Fair has been holding sanctioned races, and bringing in the greatest drivers in the world but when all was over the events have been just auto races—nothing more, to be sure carrying big prize money, big drivers but no national recognition.

This winter the A.A.A. board decided to honor all Detroit races by giving them full points so on June 10th there will be a 100 mile race open to 9 1/2 cubic inch cars and a 50 mile curtain raiser. The big race will be for cars with super-chargers, the curtain event for ordinary racing machines.

Drivers that have entered so far are Ray Keech, the Philadelphia boy who won international fame when he hung up a world record of 207 miles per hour on the beach at Daytona, Florida, a few days before Loebhart was killed. Keech has bought and will drive in Detroit the Loebhart car, the same machine in which all world records for race tracks were made.

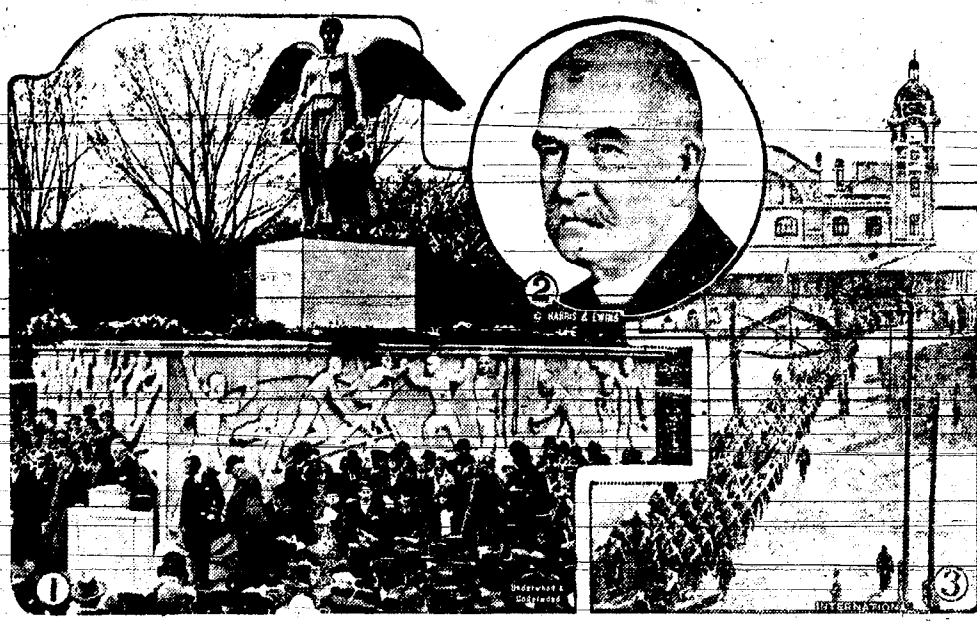

Another star to enter early is Peter DePaola, the Italian and present A.A.A. champion for the year and bracketed with him is George Sanders who won the Indianapolis race last year. DePaola and Sanders both have new cars. Walbur Shaw, millionaire Detroit sportsman who has hung up a record, this one for four cylindrical cars of 128 miles an hour has also come in early.

Fourteen cars are to start in the race, 12 in the smaller. Entries close June 6th. Approximately 12,000 is up for the two races. Cliff Durant son of W.C. Durant is starter and Larry Fisher of Fisher Brothers fame is referee.

All tickets go on sale race week at the Detroit Auto Club although gates to the grounds open at 8 o'clock race day and early fans will have a chance to see all the cars taking their qualifying trials.

School Notes

Editors—Isbrand Harder, Ellen Speck, Corinne Sheldon.

Surprise! Surprise!

Margaret LaMotte—My Scotch uncle sent me his picture this morning. Daisy H.—So? How does he look? Margaret—I don't know. I haven't had it developed yet.

The Seasons

Mr. Cushman—"How many seasons in the year are there?" Arthur W.—"There are three, Mr. Cushman,—football, basketball and baseball."

Marie—When is that roller-skating instructor going to give you a lesson? Martha—He promised to give me a sitting tomorrow.

Earlier Model

Look at that rhinoceros! Junior Lauridsen—"That ain't no rhinoceros; that's a hippopotamus. Can't you see it ain't got no radiator cap?"

Paul H.—The police think they have uncovered a new murder mystery. Stanley S.—What are they circumstances? Paul—Over at the library they found a man's nose buried in a book.

Lucky Fish

Miss Schumann had brought a glass bowl containing gold fish to school. Now, said she, "Can anyone tell me what a goldfish is?"

Yes teacher, replied Perry Greenwood, "It's a machine that has got very rich."

Some Sentimental Short Story

Simon Stoddard, slim, simple student, actual checkbook-staring gallery, suddenly saw Sadie Simpkins, sweet sixteen, stepping sturdily. Sam Sloane, sly sport, sat surveying surroundings, sadly saw sublime Sadie sauntering slowly. Sam seeking Sadie saw Sadie seated silently, so Sam swaggered softly soliciting Sadie socially. Sadie screamed, slapped Sam. Soon Sam sampled Simon's strength. Sam, Simon struggled. Sadie shouted, "Strike Sam!" Soon Sam sped swiftly by somewhere.

Summer's sun sank slowly. Stars shone shimmeringly. Sadie, Simon sat strangely silent. Simon suddenly said something somewhat surprising. Sadie simply said, "So sudden!" Soon Sadie shared Simon's savings. So stops Simon's sentimental story.

Nels O.—This sure is a fine day for the race. Betty W.—What race? Nels—The human race.

Ted W.—What size shoes do you wear? Truman L.—Size 7. Why there are only two sizes. One I can get my feet into, and one I can't.

Marius H.—Is your roommate in love? Alva S.—Is he? He's so bad off he makes me wake him up every fifteen minutes after he's gone to bed so he can go to sleep thinking of his girl.

Melvin M.—I just thought of the smartest idea I ever had. Isbrand—Why, what did you think of that's so wonderful? Melvin—Well, I'm going to pay a man $10,000 if he relieves me of all my worries. Isbrand—Yes, but where will you get the $10,000? Melvin—That's the first of my worries.

We wonder where the four boys in the back row in American Literature class kept themselves during roll call Tuesday.

WRIGHT M. HAVENS DIES IN SEATTLE

Wright M. Havens, Civil War veteran, and resident of Seattle, Washington, died Wednesday, May 16th at his home, 1712 45 St. S. W.

Funeral services were held at the White Funeral Parlor, Rev. C. C. Curry officiating. Cremation in Washelli Columbarium.

Mr. Havens was born in Edwards, St. Lawrence Co., New York, April 22, 1844. He enlisted in the Civil War in the fall of 1861, in Company D, 60th New York, and served until the end of the war.

February 23, 1908, he married Helen Powers. Six children were born to this union. He is survived by his widow, one son William E. Havens, and three daughters, Mrs. Fred Sleight, and Miss Pansy A. Havens, all of Seattle, Washington and Mrs. Chas. E. Marvin of Pasco, Washington.

Six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, one brother, H. H. Havens, Beaumont, Texas, and three sisters, Mrs. Frank Whitford, St. Edwards, N. Y., Mrs. Alice Noble and Mrs. Nettie Marsh of Coopersville, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Havens with their family came to Grayling, Michigan, May 1882 where they resided until November 1912 when they moved to the State of Washington, where he resided until his death. He was an honorary member of Grayling Lodge F. & A. M., Grayling, Michigan, also a member of Grayling Chapter O. E. S. and Sexton Post, G. A. R. Seattle.

We loved him, yes we loved him, but Jesus loved him more. And he has gently called him to his home.

To wonder shining shore. The Golden Gates were open. A gentle voice said "come," And with farewells unspoken, He calmly entered Home.

A Man Must Be a Christian Seven Days

A man cannot be a Christian on Sundays and do as he pleases the other six days of the week. Christianity is an attitude toward life and not lip service to a creed. We do need to set aside some specific time to restore spiritual energy just as nature demands that we set aside time in order to rebuild our physical energy. Both religion and science have found that Sunday is the time for re-creation (not wreck-recreation). Let us not forget however, that the command to honor the Sabbath is preceded by the admonition "Six days that shall labor."

The ideal Sunday is one spent quietly in the home. Church worship, peace of the family circle, good books (not newspapers), the Times, a few friends, long walks, these simple things should comprise the Sunday program for the business and professional man. Rest and peace are fundamental needs of man.—Roger Babson.

NO LASTING HAPPINESS IS IN IDLE TIME; WORK BRINGS THE BEST JOY

(By W. S. Straus, President American Society for Thrift)

We are in the midst of a definite trend toward shorter working hours in every department of business and industry. The development of labor-saving machinery is having much to do with this but this is by no means the only reason for these changing conditions.

In the days of our grandfathers there was only a limited amount of time available for recreation among the masses of the people. The hours of toil were long. Changed conditions represent a decided improvement because it is a general rule, people are making use of their spare time to good advantage. Greater time for athletics, outdoor life, travel, reading, studies of the arts and sciences and philanthropic work are among the beneficial benefits that come from changing order.

It should not be forgotten that there can be neither progress nor happiness without work. Our spare time should be made use of to make ourselves the more capable of doing the work we have mapped out for our lives.

There is no real pleasure greater than that which comes from successful accomplishment. No matter in what line of activity we may find ourselves we should realize that performing our daily tasks to the best of our ability brings far greater contentment of mind than could possibly come from idleness.

There is no true happiness in an idle life. Waste of time is a form of thriftlessness that is as destructive of rightful pleasure as waste of money or waste of health.

Work alone brings happiness because work is creative and unbuilding.

All the instincts of the human race which have been responsible for humanity's progress have found their real fulfillment in work.

Happiness through industrious employment is one of the fundamentals that can be continually counted on. It is a splendid type of true, constructive thrift.

OLD RESIDENT PASSED AWAY

In the passing of Rasmus Larson at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Middy LaMotte last Wednesday, Grayling lost one of its oldest residents. Mr. Larson had been in ill health for several years and for a couple of days previous to his death had been confined to his bed.

Mr. Larson was born in Denmark, February 8, 1846, and a few years after coming to America came to Grayling, which was about the year 1880. Shortly after coming to Grayling he was married to Johanna Marie Hanson, who preceded him in death 16 years ago. Mr. Larson had been in the employ of the Salling Hanson Company for years or from the time he first came here, until a few years ago. Since the death of Mrs. Larson he had made his home with his children.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon with services at the Danish Lutheran church. Rev. Kjolhede conducting same. The church choir rendered several hymns during the service. There was a large congregation of friends in attendance at the funeral to pay their last rites to the old gentleman. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery.

Surviving the deceased are five daughters and two sons, Mrs. Ned Sorenson, Keokuk, Iowa; Mrs. Henry Buckholz, Saginaw; Mrs. Elmer Simpson, Stittsville; Mrs. Middy LaMotte, Mrs. Lloyd Gierke, Carl W. Larson and Chris. Larson, Grayling. Also 35 grandchildren survive. All of the above were in attendance at the funeral, together with Mrs. Sorenson's daughter, Miss Doris of Keokuk.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindness and expressions of sympathy during our late bereavement, the death of our father. Also to the boys from the Reservation who donated their cars.

Mrs. Nels Sorenson.
Mrs. Henry Buckholz.
Mrs. Elmer Simpson.
Mr. and Mrs. Middy LaMotte.
Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gierke.
Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Larson.

DELAYED PARACHUTE JUMPS BANNED FOR NAVY

According to Lieutenant W. M. Reifel of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Detroit, Michigan, young men who aspire to become parachute jumpers while in the Navy are going to be held in check. Harold B. Whitby, Aviation Machinist's Mate, leaped from a plane at a height of 5,100 feet and fell 4,400 feet before he opened his parachute. Whitby's team-mates, Theodore Morgan and Thomas L. Crawford delayed the opening of their parachutes until they had fallen 3,000 and 2,000 feet respectively. The former record, held by the U. S. Army, was 2,200 feet.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur caused the following order to be published: "No delayed-release parachute training jumps will be made by Navy Personnel except by express Departmental authorization."

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

State College Sets Alfalfa Day June 8—Feeders Day at Michigan State College, June 15, has a special significance for livestock men as the experiment station will be explained, show the comparative costs of gains produced by different rations.

Seven years of experimental work on the testing of all alfalfa varieties for hardiness under weather conditions in this state will be graphically shown by the experimental plots. These and the comparative worthlessness of others.

Visitors will meet at 10:00 a. m. in the dairy barn to inspect dairy cattle that are being used to test the comparative costs of gains produced by different rations.

The remainder of the forenoon will be devoted to a discussion of the feeding trials that have been made with hogs and beef cattle, and the superintendent of the College farm will give some pointers on the care and feeding of the work from the ground.

Luncheon will be held in the Union building. Lawn feeding, studies in farm organization, the outlook for feeder steers, and problems of the livestock producer will be topics on the program at the conclusion of the luncheon.

The proudest man we ever knew was a county chairman with an assistant sergeant at arms badge for high prices of farm feeds the annual convention.

CONSERVATION NEWS

To date few forest fires of consequence have been reported by the State Conservation Department fire wardens. Constant vigilance on the part of the Department's men has tended to keep the fires started from reaching dangerous proportions. High winds and the lack of green growth occasioned by the late spring have been the principal reasons for the fires that have required attention.

The most serious fire occurred east of Grayling near Lovell. This fire destroyed timber to some extent but Lake George and the other in the northwest corner of Gladwin county, were confined largely to grass.

Fifteen trucks, one in each division mapped out by the State Fire Warden's office, will help prevent and control fires in Michigan's forests during the summer season. The trucks will be utilized for the carrying of equipment to the scene of the fires. Each carries a pump and 1,000 feet of hose besides the water that is used in the hand extinguishers. These conveyances are looked upon as a very important asset to the fire fighters.

Visitors are welcome at the towers. The Department is pleased to have tourists pay a visit although it stipulates that those who choose to climb the towers do so at their own risk. A register is provided in each tower so that an accurate check of the number of visitors may be had at the end of the season.

The new tower, with an enclosed ladder, removes some of the hazards of climbing. Landings are provided at frequent intervals, thus affording a place for the climber to rest. The enclosed stairway also forbids the climber the hazardous pastime of looking at the distance he may be from the ground.

New badges of authority are being issued to all officers of the State Conservation Department. On and after June 1, all authorized employees of the Department will have their new symbols of authority. The Department is anxious to have all sportsmen in the state know this fact. If approached by a self-admitted conservation department officer, the fisherman or hunter would do well to request permission to see the officer's badge. After June 1, if the badge does not have the figures 1928 stamped upon it, the officer is an impostor. For several years the Department has issued the same style of badge. Now and then an officer, under the employ of the state or inadvertently loses his badge. It is easily seen how these badges may fall into improper hands. They may then be used illegally, even for the purpose of extorting money from a sportsman. There has been evidence that this has occurred in the past. The Department is asking sportsmen to report the name of any person who tries to assert his authority while wearing one of the out-of-date badges. The principal distinguishing mark between the old and the new is the figures "1928" stamped on the recent issue.

THANKS FOR THE AMBULANCE RIDE

By Erwin Greer
(President Greer School of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago, Ill.)

Every time you hear the piercing wail of the police ambulance it means that somebody is injured. And from central station and all the substations these carriers of injured citizens are constantly being requisitioned—ninety per cent of the cases the victims have been struck down by automobiles, machines have crashed together or there has been some other form of traffic mishap.

When you are on foot, driving at your own wheel, riding in a taxicab or stage, you never can tell when the call will be sounded for an ambulance to come and get you or some member of your family.

And when you are being swiftly transported through the crowded street, remember that Statistics are poor comfort to a widow and the orphan; every individual killed or maimed was necessary to someone or other. And while we may very properly feel that some progress is being made in lessening the deaths and the accidents this is no time to sit down and fold our hands.

The newspapers of the country to the number of nearly 300, are a most important factor in awakening the conscience of the public; their service in lowering the death and disability totals cannot be overestimated. If they and the other organized agencies for spreading information, like the boards of commerce, health departments, safety councils and national organizations that concern themselves with reducing the hazards of living in this wilding age, keep up the good work, the time may yet come when every man will drive and walk and act so that his conscience can sleep nights.

Take your conscience on the front seat with you; and, if it speaks to you from the back seat, don't get sore.

Love at Seventeen

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

HAVE just read again the story of the early life of Charles Dickens. He had much to contend against in making his advancement in life—poverty, discouragement and love—and these things he tells about in his correspondence with one of his dearest friends. It seems as if love might be an aid to progress instead of a handicap, but in the case of Dickens, as in the case of many young fellows, it is often all absorbing. It takes the whole stage of life when it possesses the young boy and there is often no room left for anything else. Speaking of his passion for Maria Beudant for whom Dickens conceived a very early passion, he says of this love affair in his seventeenth or eighteenth year:

"I excluded every other idea from my mind for four years, at a time of my life when four years are equal to four times four."

Boys are the most emotional creatures living. They do not always in fact they very seldom give oral expression to these emotions, but the feeling is there just the same and eats deeply into the boy's inner consciousness. Love is a great emotion and often a purifying one when it comes to an adult man, and I feel sorry for the man to whom it does not come.

When it comes to a boy of seventeen or eighteen with all its force and power, it is usually an overwhelming force which takes the place of every other thought or duty.

Those who advocate the separation of the sexes during the early years of adolescence seem to feel that by this separation they reduce the probability of these early love affairs and put the young man into a position where he will be likely to give all his attention to his studies or his work. They are quite mistaken. Wherever he goes the boy is subject to this emotional infection. He may pick it up on the street, he may catch the disease through the slightest social contact in the most incidental way.

It is like measles; he is not safe any where. Even distance does not seem to change conditions. The sweethearts at home, even when he has a thousand miles away is often as inspiring as if he were only across the street.

His picture on his desk and the daily letter keep him in an emotional state, strong which only too frequently submerges him.

"My boy has a little sweetheart at home," a father confided in me not long ago when bringing his seventeen-year-old son to college, "and I feel that he will be morally safe when he is away from home."

Possibly, but he can be almost certain that the boy will be intellectually almost a total loss so far as his studies are concerned, provided, of course, that he takes the sweetheart seriously.

Like Dickens, the boy is very likely to find that love at seventeen "excludes every other idea" from his mind. A boy at seventeen or eighteen, with a dozen girls in a pretty safe condition of mind and emotions. With one with whom he is passionately in love he is pretty sure to give his time and attention completely to that emotion, and until the disease runs its course he is worthless for anything else.
